The record date for the AGM is the date which determines the right to attend Pohjola Bank plc's AGM and the number of shares and votes available at the Meeting. Under the Limited Liability Companies Act, said right to attend the Meeting is held by a shareholder registered in the Company's Shareholder Register, maintained within the book-entry securities system, eight (8) days prior to the Meeting. In addition, holders of nominee-registered shares may be reported for temporary entry into the Shareholder Register for the purpose of attending the Meeting if, on the basis of the shares held, they have the right to be entered into the Shareholder Register eight (8) weekdays prior to the Meeting. The ex-date is the date following the AGM on which Pohjola shares (book-entry security) are traded on the NASDAQ OMX Helsinki (Helsinki Stock Exchange) for the first time without a previously declared dividend or distribution. For this reason, Pohjola shares shall be bought on the NASDAQ OMX Helsinki (Helsinki Stock Exchange) no later than the date of the AGM in order for a holder of said shares to be entitled to dividends in accordance with the dividend record date.

The dividend record date within the book-entry securities system is the date on which a shareholder's entitlement to dividends, decided by the AGM, is determined on the basis of Pohjola's Shareholder Register.

The dividend payment date is the date on which Pohjola pays dividends, decided by the AGM, into the bank accounts of relevant beneficiaries in Finland. The actual dividend payment date outside Finland depends on measures by banks transferring dividend payments.
