

Cargo Insurance

Product Guide
Valid as of 1 January 2021

Damage to goods during transport may be financially significant. Transport risks are worth insuring against in order to avoid interruptions to the company's operations due to potential transport losses.

This product guide explains the main points of Cargo insurance. Detailed information about the contents of the insurance can be found in the terms and conditions of Cargo insurance and the policy document. You should familiarise yourself with these terms and conditions carefully.

Insurance against damage during transport

Cargo insurance covers loss or damage to goods during transport that occurs during the liability period of the seller, buyer or other owner of the goods. During road, sea, rail or air transport, goods or other property sold or purchased by your company may sustain loss or damage.

Your Cargo insurance policy will be tailored to your company's individual transport risks. The objects of insurance can include:

- transport related to domestic sales and purchases
- import and export shipments
- deliveries between your company's business locations
- subcontracted transport and maintenance, guarantee, repair and exhibition transport.

Unless specifically agreed, the policy will not cover:

- cash, payment instruments and securities
- precious metals, pearls, precious stones, jewellery and other valuables manufactured from the above raw materials
- works of art and valuable collections
- valuable instruments
- live animals.

Cargo insurance is usually taken out by the party that is liable for damage sustained by the goods during transport by virtue of a contract or terms of delivery, including any interim storage included in the transport. In trading agreements, liabilities are usually defined according to established terms of delivery (e.g. Incoterms® 2020 or Finnterms 2001). Cargo insurance is also used for shipments that the seller is obligated to insure by the terms of delivery (CIF and CIP).

Example

The business idea of our client company is to manufacture and deliver high-quality, state-of-the-art technological devices in impeccable condition to its customers. As the seller, the company is liable for damage or loss during transport. In the event of damage, the financial loss can be considerable due to the cargo's high value in relation to the company's turnover. In the event of a loss, we will compensate the company for the devices' trade invoice value minus the deductible. This compensation will allow the company to continue its operations.

Do you require full or basic cover?

Cargo insurance can be taken out with full or basic cover. Full cover is the most comprehensive all-risk policy. Full cover will compensate damage caused by sudden and unforeseeable external events during transport.

Basic cover will insure against the risks specified in the insurance terms and conditions, such as fire, explosions, lightning, sea accidents, traffic or air accidents, jettison or washing overboard, earthquakes, landslides or avalanches, hurricanes, volcanic eruptions and general average, in the manner specified in the insurance terms and conditions. Certain objects of insurance, such as deck cargo, bulk cargo, cargo transported in open vehicles, and import forwarding are only eligible for basic cover.

By separate agreement, the basic cover can be expanded with the following additional covers:

- breakage, theft, disappearance, burglary, robbery, deficit, and moisture and temperature-related damage.

Example

Components for IT equipment were purchased from the Far East subject to FCA terms of delivery (Incoterms® 2020). The shipment was supposed to be delivered to Finland by air. The value of the component shipment was 65,000 euros, and the shipment was packed into a single carton. When the shipment was received in Finland, it came to light that the packaging tape had been replaced and the entire shipment had been stolen. Despite the airline's investigation, the components were never recovered. The recipient received compensation under transportation insurance, which provided comprehensive cover.

How frequently and where do you transport goods?

You can take out Cargo insurance for all transport or individual deliveries.

A continuous annual insurance covers all transport agreed for inclusion in the policy. The insurance premium is based on the annual total sum insured of covered transport, or on your company's turnover.

Insurance for individual deliveries is suitable for companies with only an occasional need to deliver goods. In this case, every delivery must be separately insured. The inception and termination times of the insurance are recorded in the insurance policy.

In accordance with your transport risks, the territorial limits of the insurance can be agreed to cover Finland, the Nordic countries, Europe or the entire world.

What does the insurance cover?

Cargo insurance covers the value of goods damaged or lost in transit. We will assume liability for the insured goods for each delivery, means of transport or storage, up to the maximum compensation amount entered in the insurance policy.

The insurance also covers possible general average disbursements. The insurance also covers reasonable loss prevention costs incurred by the policyholder in taking action to limit or prevent any incurred or imminent losses covered by this insurance.

The deductible entered in the insurance policy will be deducted from each loss event. Increasing the deductible will lower your insurance premium. The insurance may also include clauses such as special deductibles specific to certain types of loss.

What does the insurance not cover?

Cargo insurance does not cover indirect costs incurred from transport loss or damage, such as delay costs, loss of markets, loss of profit margins, contractual penalties or other extra expenses.

Cargo insurance with full or basic cover does not cover damage caused by, for example, the goods' inherent properties or susceptibility to damage, variations in moisture content, deficient packaging, inappropriate means of transport, wear, scratching or abrasion.

Example

A sawmill company engaged a carrier to drive a shipment of timber from Mikkeli to Vantaa. The weather was clear when the forklift operator loaded the cargo, and the goods were left uncovered. Rain then drenched the shipment during transport. Despite attempts at drying the boards, they were irreparably spoiled. As the damage was caused by a failure to appropriately package or protect the goods before transport and equip them to withstand regular wear, taking into account the goods' transport, handling and storage conditions and susceptibility to damage, the loss was not compensated by the full-cover Cargo insurance.

Factors affecting the premium

The insurance premium of Cargo insurance depends on the following factors, among others

- the total value of insured transport
- the company's line of business
- the scope of insurance cover
- deductible or qualifying period
- the territorial limits of the insurance.

In Finland, cargo insurance premiums are subject to an insurance premium tax. A separate ship-ment-specific Insurance Policy or Insurance Certificate is used in documentary credit trading. We charge a separate service fee for preparing the necessary documentation.

War and strike clauses

Cover against war and strikes can be added to basic or full cover by specific agreement. War cover is only valid in sea, air and mail transport.

War insurance covers loss or damage directly caused by, for example:

- instruments of war, regardless of whether or not a state of war is prevailing
- seizure, confiscation, arrest or other equivalent measures taken by belligerent parties, and collisions occurring in connection with such measures, and
- civil unrest.

Strike insurance covers damage to goods caused by persons taking part in a strike, lock-out, riot, civil unrest, looting, terrorism or sabotage.

War and strike cover do not include indirect loss or damage. This include losses due to delays, losses of production and other indirect costs.

Terms for international transport

The globally recognised British Institute Cargo Clauses (ICC) terms apply to export shipments and transport between and within foreign countries. In many respects, these clauses correspond to the insurance terms and conditions of Pohjola Insurance's Cargo insurance.

Institute Cargo Clauses (C) correspond to the extent of the basic cover offered by Pohjola Insurance, while Institute Cargo Clauses (A) correspond to the full cover. The international War and Strike Clauses (Cargo) are termed Institute War Clauses and Institute Strikes Clauses.

International special terms and conditions

As a rule, the international special clauses for Cargo insurance are applied to import and export transports and other foreign transport governed by global cargo insurance programmes. The special clauses expand the Institute Cargo Clauses with regard to certain special risks or costs related to transport.

Inception and termination of insurance cover for individual deliveries

The insurance attaches when goods are for the first time being moved from the place of storage for immediate loading into the means of transport that has been reserved for it to begin transportation or when risk is transferred to the policyholder pursuant to the terms of delivery or other written agreement.

The insurance terminates when the goods have reached the final place of destination named in the insurance contract and discharged there from the means of transport employed for the actual transit and immediately transferred to the place of storage at the place of discharge. The insurance will also terminate when the policyholder, the insured or any person identifiable to them has prior to that exercised their right of disposal to have the goods stored, sorted, distributed or sold, or decides to forward the goods to a place other than that named in the policy or referred to in the insurance contract.

Unless otherwise agreed, this insurance will be terminated at the latest either

- upon expiry of 60 days counting from midnight of the day of discharge of the goods from the seagoing vessel at the final port of discharge

- upon expiry of 30 days counting from midnight of the day of discharge of the goods from the aircraft at the airport at the place of destination, or
- upon expiry of 8 days counting from midnight of the day of discharge of the goods from a means of transport other than vessel or aircraft at a customs-house, railway station or other cargo terminal at the place of destination.

Observe safety regulations

The purpose of safety regulations is to prevent or limit damage. If the policyholder or the insured party has wilfully or through negligence failed to observe the safety regulations and the negligence has had an effect on the occurrence of the loss, compensation may be reduced or disallowed altogether.

Notify us of increased risk of loss or damage

The policyholder must inform the insurer without delay if material changes that increase the risk of loss or damage have occurred in transport conditions or the information entered in the insurance policy. If this notification is neglected, compensation may be reduced or disallowed, or the insurance contract may be terminated.

Responsibility for preventing and mitigating damage

In case of loss or damage or immediate threat, the policyholder or insured person must, within their capabilities, take the necessary action to prevent and limit the damage and observe our safety regulations. If the policyholder wilfully or through negligence fails to perform the damage prevention and limitation duty, and the failure has had an impact on the damage, compensation may be reduced or disallowed.

Instructions in case of loss

- Inform us about any losses without delay. You can file a loss report in our online service (op.fi) or in Pohjola Claim Help (vahinkoapu.pohjola.fi/en – Corporate customers – Law – Goods were damaged during transport – instructions for the owner of the goods).
- Always give the insurance company the opportunity to inspect the loss and facilitate an amicable settlement.
- Do not dispose of the damaged goods before the loss inspection, unless this has been specifically authorised.
- If damage has occurred or is imminent, see to limiting and preventing losses. Follow instructions issued by us.

- If the damage was caused by a third party, take the required measures to retain our rights against the party that caused the damage. For example, identify the party that caused the damage and notify the carrier of the loss or damage. Maximum liabilities of carriers and complaint and limitation periods are listed in the table below.
- If there is reason to suspect a crime in connection with the loss, notify the police authorities of this.
- If the insurance event gives rise to legal proceedings, notify us without delay.

Filing a claim

A loss report must be made concerning all losses for which indemnity is claimed. The loss report should be completed with care, and you should enclose any information and documents required for determining the insurance company's liability, such as the waybill, trade invoice, or complaint, inspection report and claim for damages filed with the carrier.

The claimant must file a written claim with the insurance company, conforming with the insurance contract, no later than six months from the date when they became aware of the loss or damage. If the claim is not submitted within this time, the insurance company will be discharged from liability and the right for compensation will be lost.
